The Time Machine

Considering theories of evolution as well as environmental issues such as the production and consumption of plastics and I looked at how they would impact the development of our species.

Four Plays for Dancers – W.B. Yeats

I looked to the history Ireland holds with religion beginning the story in paganism and ending in Christianity. I used contemporary stained glass artists in my designs to reimagine the text.

Using only the brief of 'Black & White' I decided to create a theatrical character inspired by the shapes and colours of Georg Alexander Mathey's lino cuttings.

Al's Brand – dir. Dennis Hauck

Working under Makeup Designer Linda Mooney, I worked on this film which is a period piece set in Ireland in the 1800s.

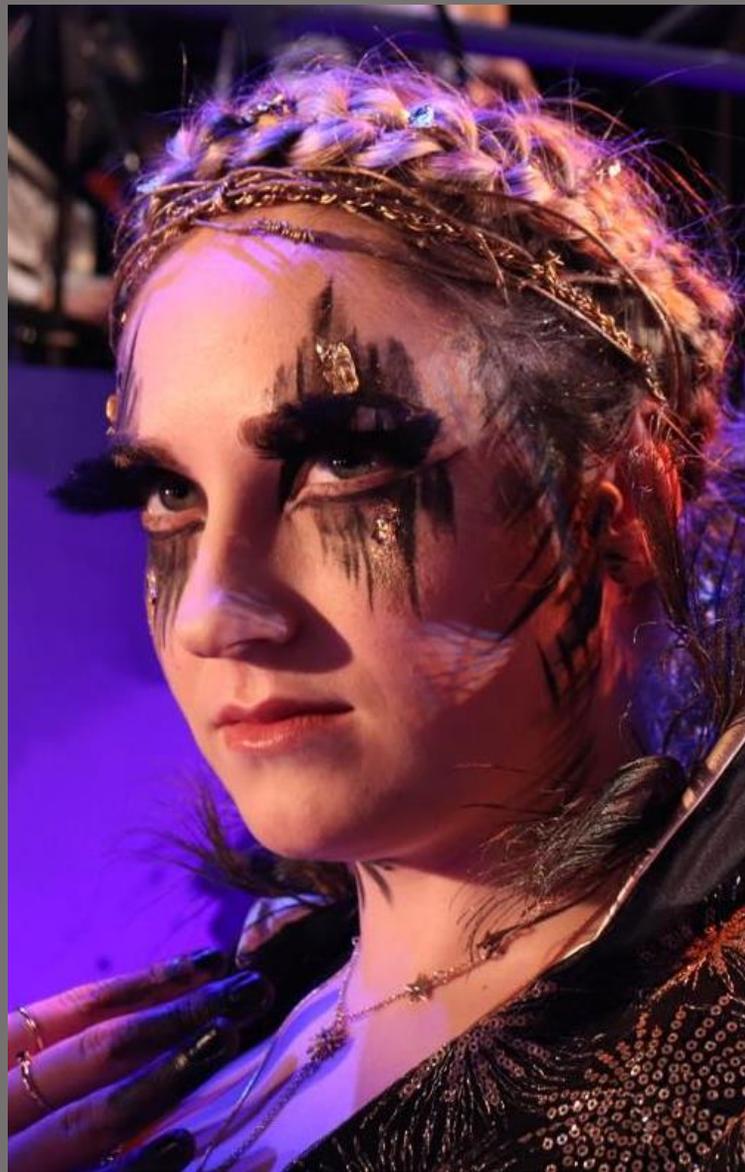

Queen of the Gods, wife of Jove, very angry. SUPERBLY powerful, in appearance she is the most powerful of all the characters. She has two or three birds as sidekicks. Think of the Morrigan from Irish mythology.

TREATMENT Graphic eye. Fluttery peacock eyelashes. Contour. Textured face makeup with gold leaf possibly extending to the hair line. Intricate Halo braid. Gold jewelry. Light golden twig-like crown. Black claw nails.

Alice in Wonderland

I decided to look into the surreal aspects of the story and I chose to focus on the idea that the story is a nightmare - I kept elements of nightmares within my design as well as one hopeful element of a dream that would symbolise the story to come.

‘Not Detected’

Short Film – Dir. Nathália Gardin

“The routine of a young married couple, whose relationship is no longer filled with love or companionship and just lingers because it’s convenient, is broken for a few hours as a common friend, to whom they are both attracted, comes to dinner.” – Directors Notes

'Aréir'

Short Film – Dir. Vivek Jain

The film is not just a tale of a broken relationship and disconnected vulnerable individual. It unfolds the eeriness behind the scene through the dark account of Domestic Abuse. The long-lasting despair and the inability to communicate in this short is not the result of depression in urban settlement but the bitter reality hidden behind the walls of high rises. – Directors Notes

'The Last Supper'

Short Film - Dir. Nikita Karmen

In a spacious wealthy dining room a banquet is held, while a riot happens outside. The hosting family and few guests are paying no attention to what happens outside, and only try to overcome the sound of crowd. - Directors Notes

She Creature

Looking historically at the symbolism of the mermaid and how it resonates to the perception of the modern day woman, I recreated this film using inspiration from underwater creatures for a fantasy creature creation.
